

SELF-LOVE COACHES ARE Sexy!

Are you a budding self-love expert on a mission to change this world for the better? Let's find out...

There are no coincidences whatsoever.

Your intuition brought you here.

Opening this PDF already tells me that there is an innate desire within you to become a self-love coach during this lifetime. At this crucial time in humanity, we need everyone who is willing to help raise the vibration and cocreate the new earth.

If you're reading this, it's extremely likely that you're the person that people come to for support when they are going through something. You may not even know what you did, but they feel so much better when they leave. Just by you being you, despite any challenges you're facing in your own life, you hold a beautiful space for people around you and even strangers.

You really care.

To find out if your soul is aligned with becoming a self-love coach, take the quiz below.

FAQ's

I've got a full-time job, can I still do the coaching academy?

Yes! About half the group will have a full-time job at the start of the course (less by the end!) Time wise, it will be a busy few months and yet soooo rewarding. It's totally doable.

I'm a mum and have less capacity, will I be able to fit it all in?

A lot of the past group were also mums and managed very well. They all supported each other. Everyone is on a different timeline so things could take slightly longer if you have less capacity. Yet everything will get done in divine time. I am sooooo inspired by mums and wish to be a mum in the future, so I love all the stories and the energy that mums bring. I'm in awe of you all!

How much does the training cost?

I will discuss this on a call with you. This is so I can hold space for you to expand into whether this investment feels right for you on every level. It is also so I can tune in with your energy to see if we are a good fit to work together. There are three ways to invest: pay in full; a six-month payment plan; a twelve-month payment plan. A lot of the women make the entire investment back during the time and a lot more! We have countless testimonials of this. From month two you can start getting paid clients and sharing your gifts - wahooo!

How is the course structured?

It's spilt into three main sections:

- How to hold space for people, the psychology of self-love, how to structure a coaching session/group coaching session/workshop/event/retreat.
- The business (or blissness) of self-love, social media, how to get clients, make a simple website, take payments, all the tech and more.
- Your personal transformation. This is where I will lead you to go deeper than you've ever gone before on your own self-love adventure, whilst synonymously seeing me in action as a coach coaching the group so you can learn how to do it all with precision and lashings of love and permission slips!

When does the training start?

The training starts on Monday 17th April 2023

What days and times do we meet?

The course is taught online, so it is accessible to everyone around the globe.

Month One is an intensive. We meet on Monday, Wednesday and Friday at 6-8pm UK time.

Months Two and Three we meet once a week (day and time TBC).

All calls are recorded as we have women across the world in different time zones. All I ask is that you catch up if you miss a session, otherwise it's tricky to get back on the horse because it's a fast-paced course!

What if I am terrible at technology?

We will teach you everything you need to know to become a tech wizard and/or outsource everything to a virtual assistant. I personally don't really do any of my own tech. Never have! We always have a tech coach on the team to ask questions to! We all support each other and even have VA's on hand to help you get started.

Will I get a certification?

Yes, you will get a Gina Swire Infinite Self Love Coaching Academy certification. The coaching industry is completely unregulated, so you don't need anything to start coaching at all. Some of my best friends who have multimillion-dollar coaching businesses have never done any courses or certifications. Personally, I have done numerous courses over the last decade, and I am certified in multiple areas. My initial coaching certification was great as it got me going, yet I felt it was lacking so many things which I've included in this course, which is full, full, full!

Will it be fun?

Heaven YES! We have an absolute ball on these calls whilst being really productive and going really deep. I can guarantee that you will learn so much about yourself and love your training. It's a full vibe! The ladies are all salt of the earth beings of light and that makes for very expansive friendships too! I am also partial to telling a few real-time stories that never make it to Instagram... 😊

Now the biggest question of all, are you prepared to get the F out of your own way and be part of this NEXT LEVEL important AF mission?

I need you.

You need you.

The world needs you.

Let's GO!!!
